DANCING DILEMMA

Name: Annabelle W.

In the depths of the forest there lived a monkey. His name was Max and he loved spending time with his friends, but there was one big problem. Max's friends all loved to dance. Unfortunately Max didn't know how to dance so he always felt left out. Henry the hippopotamus danced the tango. Ryan the rhinoceros danced the rumba. Freda the falcon danced the foxtrot. Chelsie the cheetah danced the cha-cha. Max had always wanted to dance but he was scared. He didn't want to embarrass himself and he was worried that the other animals would laugh at him. One night Max decided it was time that he learnt to dance. He got up on the dance floor and he started to move. First he felt his legs start to shake. Then his arms started to swing. Finally his head began to nod. The other animals didn't laugh at him and they didn't make fun of him. In fact, the other animals all joined in to dance with Max. Max was so happy he couldn't believe he hadn't tried to dance earlier! The animals all danced on through the night.

REFLECTION

1. When is a time that you felt scared to try something new?

I was scared when I wanted to try the monkey bars
Someone helped me and I learned how.

2. Why is it important to be brave and try new things?

So that you know how,

3. How can you show support for someone who is scared to try something new?

I would show Kowari how to do the monkey bars to.

4. What are some new challenges that you would like to try?

I'd like to try juggling.

5. How can you overcome your nerves when trying something new?

I will keep trying until I do it.

Dear Mrs. Wooten

I think you should have Junie
B. Jones and the yucky Blucky fruit cake because it is very, very funny.

NEVER TRUST A TIGER

Name: Watterson

Timmy the tiger was a terrible liar. He hated telling the truth and he liked to trick all of his friends. One time he pretended to be stuck in the mud.

"Help me, help me," he shouted. Everyone came running, only to see Timmy rolling around in the mud laughing. Another time he pretended to be drowning in the lake.

"Help me, help me," he shouted. Everyone came running, only to see Timmy swimming happily in the water. His friends were tired of his lies and tricks, and they were sick of always coming to his rescue only to find out that Timmy was just fine. The next day Timmy got his leg stuck in a trap, he yelled out in pain, "Help me, help me," he shouted, expecting his friends to come running to his aide. He waited and waited, his leg getting more and more painful as time went by. No one came. He waited all night with his leg stuck in that trap. Finally, a kind elephant found him lying on the ground, his leg still caught. The elephant used his trunk to release the tiger from the trap and then he carried Timmy back to his friends. Timmy promised from that day forward to never, ever lie to his friends again!

REFLECTION

1. Why is it a bad idea to lie to your friends?

because they won't trust you any more.

2. How does it feel when someone lies to you?

bad because you did something bad

3. Is it ever ok to lie? Explain your answer.

no because you might get hurt

4. What can you do if you have been caught lying to someone?

tell the truth stop doing
it.

5. How did the elephant in the story demonstrate kindness and compassion?

because you should always help a friend in need.

Science Experiment

Annabelle and I put water in a dish and added pepper. When my finger was dirty, nothing happened. After I put soap on my finger, all of the germs went away.

The pepper represented germs and showed how soap helped to get germs.
